Book of Fate

What every Woman (and Man) should know.

How to choose a Jweetheart

How to Study Character.

How to Choose a Sweetheart.

Shakespeare says-

"There is a destiny that shapes our ends, rough hew them how we may."

ONE of the chief points in choosing a mate is to study character, and that can be read in either sex by a little careful study, but the first great principle is found in the maxim "know thyself." Character can be read in the Face, Walk, Disposition, Complexion, etc. For instance, Fair people usually tend to physical weakness, but are strongminded and very sensitive in feelings, mate with Dark persons. While Dark persons are usually very courageous but very impetuous. and oft do things in haste which cause disaster, more from want of thought than want of heart. Character is also read in the Eve. One writer has expressed it most truly as the "Window of the Soul." It receives and reflects the intelligence of thought and reveals instantly, clearly, and truthfully the various changes of our feelings: hence, as an example Ladies with Brown Eves are usually of a very intellectual turn of mind. while Gentlemen with same color are very stubborn and sulky, with great self-opinion.

Shakespeare also says:
"There is a tide in the affairs of Life which if taken at the Flood leads on to Fortune."

Be sure it is the right tide, for all that glitters is not gold, and a little thought may save lifetime regrets.
